

The spacing between the i agree and the bottom of the handle isn’t correct
There is no Terms of Service or Privacy Policy to click on to

FLEXIRACE

Race anything.

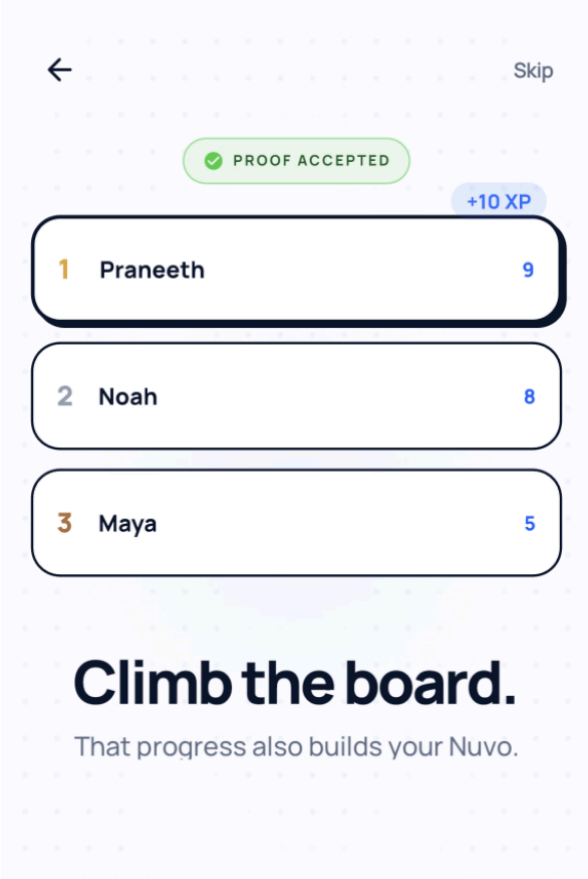

Lowest golf score

78 trokes

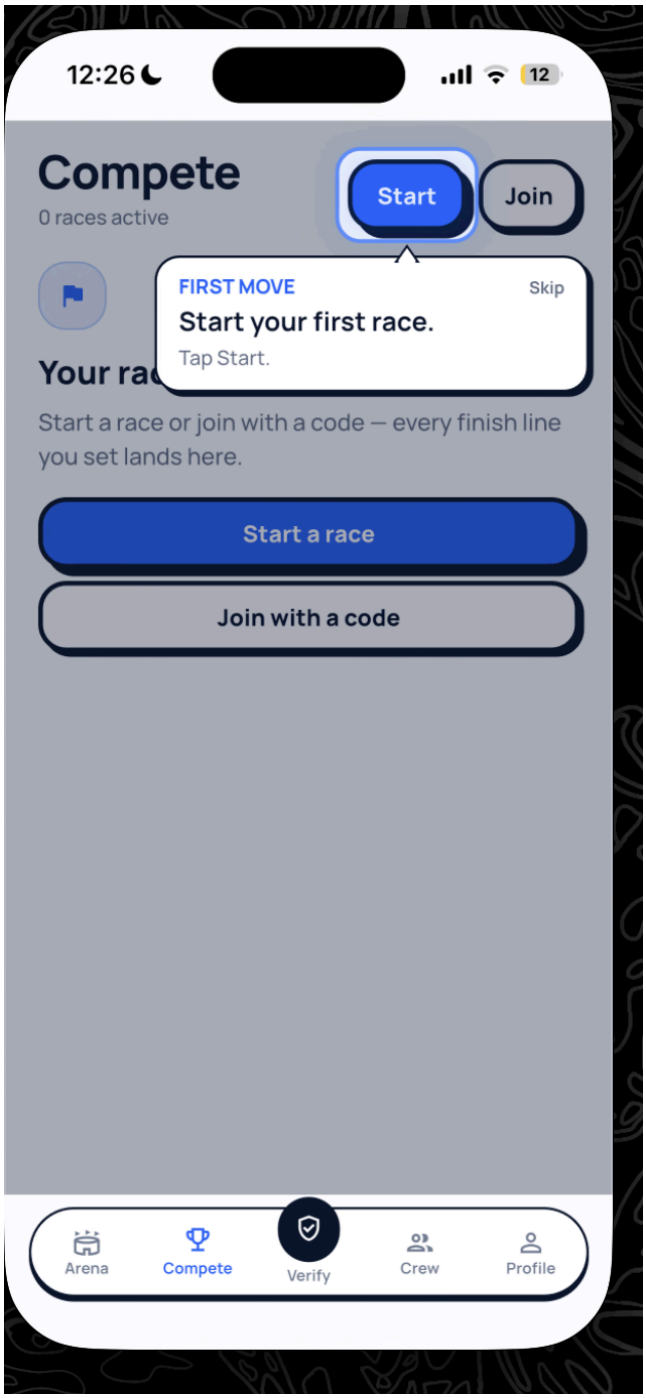

Set the finish line. Bring your crew.

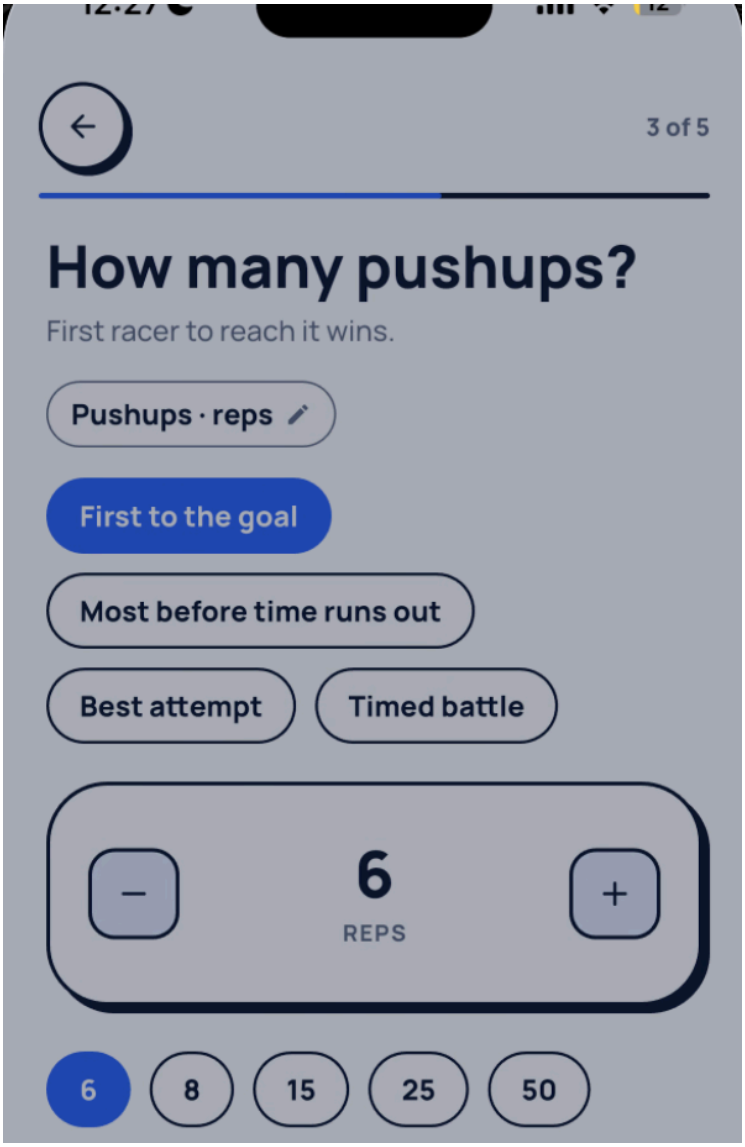

The bottom line is cut of and what the fuck is a troke

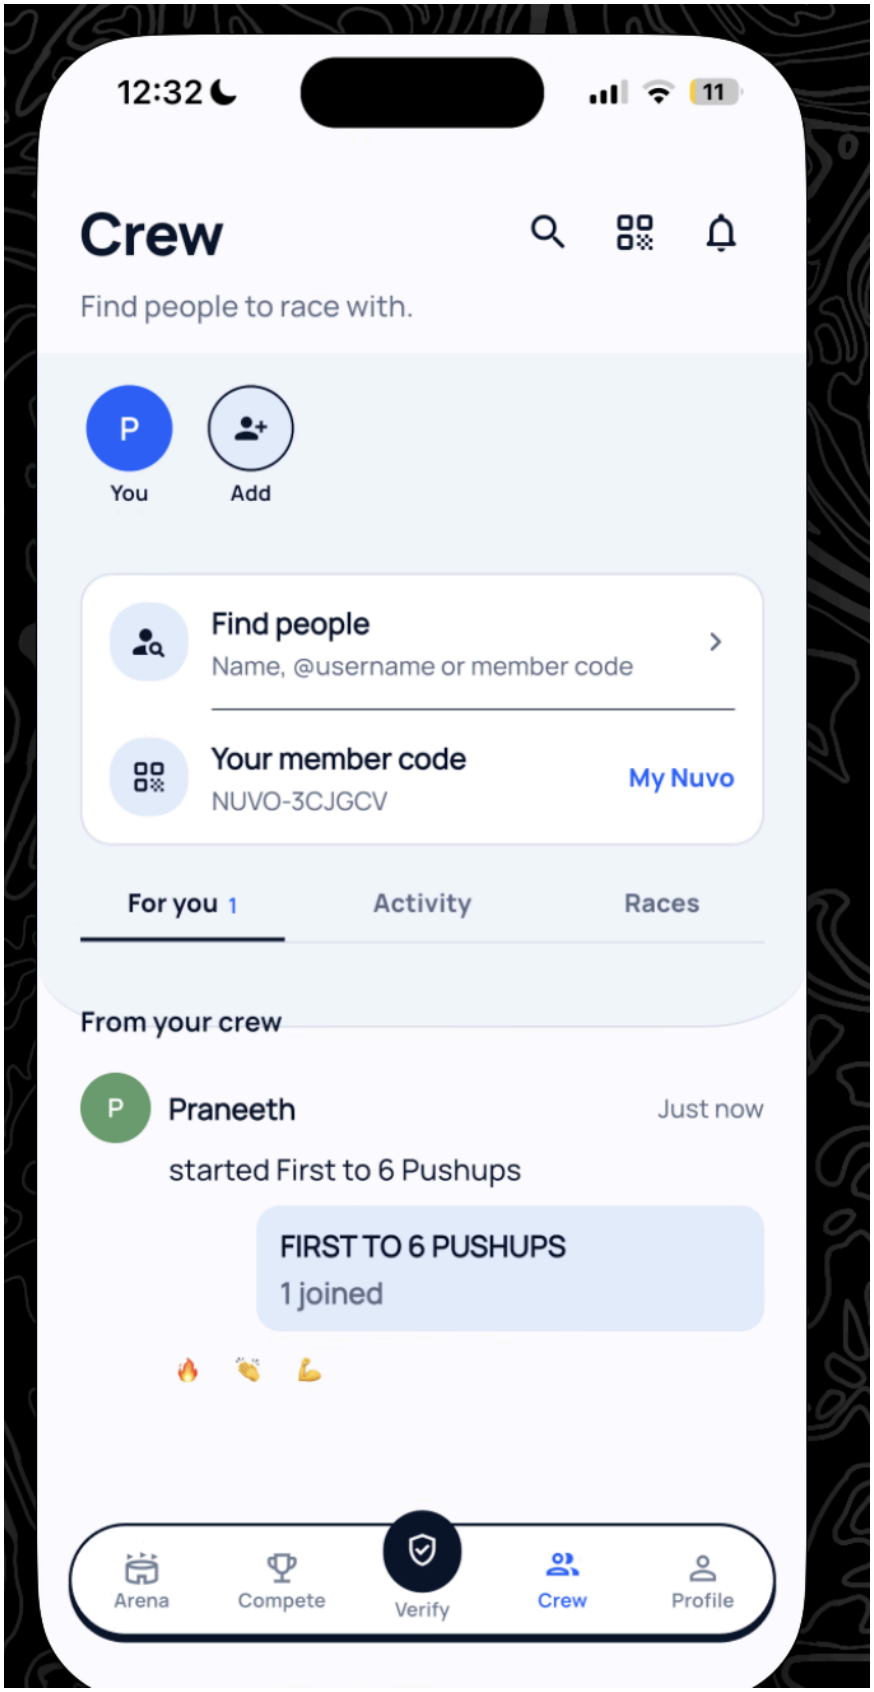

Spacing on the +10 xp is not correct

12:26
12
Compete
0 races active
Start
Join
FIRST MOVE
Skip
Start your first race.
Tap Start.
Your ra
Start a race or join with a code — every finish line you set lands here.
Start a race
Join with a code
Arena
Compete
Verify
Crew
Profile

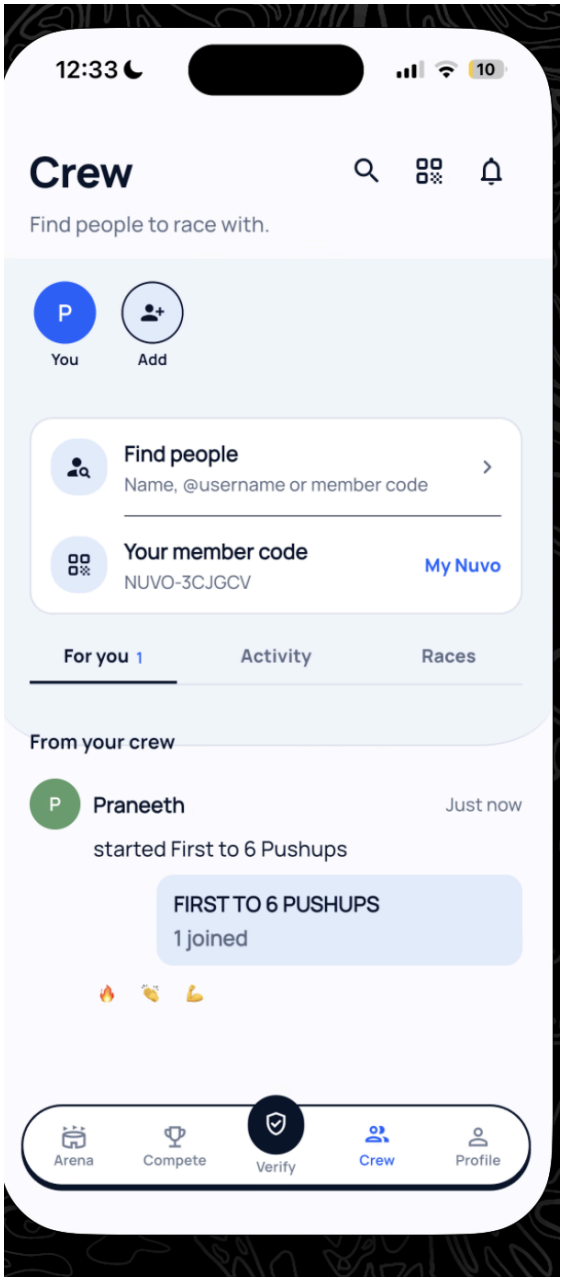

This ui for like highlighting does not work, it’s not spaced correctly and doesn’t make that much sense.

I’m trying to choose my goal like the app says but whenever I try changing something it automatically like goes off of it and then I doin’t actually end up being able to choose my goal.

12:32
11
Crew
Find people to race with.
P
You
Add
Find people
Name, @username or member code
Your member code
NUVO-3CJGCV
My Nuvo
For you 1
Activity
Races
From your crew
P
Praneeth
Just now
started First to 6 Pushups
FIRST TO 6 PUSHUPS
1 joined
Arena
Compete
Verify
Crew
Profile

Maybe split this page into two. Like add a bar at the top or do something. One page should be purely for adding people and the other one is like activity and races and for you or whatever (like the social aspect) atm it's not very usable or feng-shui…

That from your crew is not right atm, it's like on the bar. Lowk take away the for you page entirely and then move the add people in a different thing. So you would split this current page into two and in that second page remove the for you and just have the activity and races. Whatever the for you page would have been would move into the notification bar. Like the most important things not like everything.

Take off the member pass thing on the profile page unless there's actually a real use for having it there.
On achievements there's like a small blue bar lie on top fo the achievements that is not good at all. Why do I have to unlock mny second abde slot underneath the level 1 if I have achievements underneath that?

Make it so I can only see next up if I scroll down.

Make it so I can see next up if I press on achievements instead of being on the profile. Essentially there's like tons of achievements that I can see on the home of the profile page which is very unnecessary.

Take off the racing now that should be on compete. The profile section is way to conflicting.

Add all the privacy and data and the edit profile and th legal in a separate settings page that they can reach from the profile page.

Profile changes:
Either remove the member pass or rename it…
Move the 50 racing, 37 wins, 100% win rate where the current next achievement to unlock is. Remove the little blue highlight on top of the achievements and then make it more clear somewhere on the achievements that if I click on them then I can see all the achievements. When I click on the achievements I should be able to see the next achievement I can unlock and the next achievement that I can finish at the top. When I scroll down then I should be able to see all the possible achievements that I can get. Move racing now and recent results to liek copete or crew somewhere since they don't make sense on profile that much. Keep the Your Nuvo stuff but then remove everything under itt like the app, the privacy and data, the help, the account, and the legal into a new settings page that someone can click into.
If anything I said is not right grill me on it, the goal is to make this as clean as possible and make sure it has a better user experience.
Also make it so when I click on the level 3 or 145 XP to Level 4 it explains to me what that actually means, in this case like gaining a new achievement that I can potentially unlock.

Crew page:
Her's what you are going to keep when I press on the crew page. You are going to keep the crews button at the top that says race together on one leaderboard. You are going to keep all the like friends and the profiles that are on the top. And you are going to keep the current race that I am on right now. And keep the racing with your crew tht was on the bottom. Essentially you are going to keep everything related to current races I have with a crew and current friends/addign friends. That is it.

Here’s what’s going to change. The for you page is getting completely scrapped. What’s going to happen instead is that on the crew page there should be a way to switch from the like friends and leaderboard to the activity and races. Like a little tab at the top or something. The goal here is to compete the competition aspect and the more social/notification aspect. Maybe move the very important things that might have been in for you into the notifications.

Grill me on all of these changes that you think might not be right for the app.